

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

THE SUPERINTENDENT'S SERVICE-LEARNING TASK FORCE brought together a diverse group of California educators, students, researchers, and representatives of nonprofit organizations and businesses who have had experience with service-learning. They all recognize the power of service-learning as a teaching and learning strategy and the impact it can have on our state's youth. In addition, other participants from the public and nonprofit sectors assisted the task force by sharing recently completed research and information about successful programs. All task force members, staff, and other participants contributed to this report through their participation in the task force meetings and their review and discussion of the document's drafts.
